HIGHLANDERS' CLOSING SERIES WITH SENATORS STARTS TODAY.

Bartlett Beat Harban in Golf Championship-Capitol Hill Tennis Tourney-Base Ball Notes.

American League Games Today. American New York at Washington. Philadelphia at Boston. Detroit at Chicago.

National League Games Today. oston at Philadelphia.

New York at Brooklyn. Somehow or other those senatorial base ball chaps awake from their somnolent state whenever they go to New York city. They wake up as soon as they reach the ferry, and keep awake until they finish with the Highlanders at American League Park. Saturday was no exception to the

They played in a way that almost gave the spectators heart disease. Although they are tail-enders in the pennant race, they were beaten by only one run, the score being 6 to 5 in favor of Griffith's men. The one bright spot from the New York viewpoint was young Walter Clarkson, who won the game. He stepped into the breach when the score was a tie with a triple that sent across the plate the winning run. He has done other things since joining the New Yorks, but nothing that quite equaled this feat. As for his pitching, it could hardly have been improved upon. In the four innings that he was in the box only two hits were made off his delivery. He struck out five men, gave no bases on balls and struck no batsmen.

Two pitchers were knocked out of the box. One was Griffith, the other Wolfe. Griffith began well. For a time it looked as if he would prevent the Senators from making a property of the senators from making a run. This outlook ended in a dream. In the third inning the Senators made three hits and one run, and in the fifth a "homer" and two runs. After all this Griffith gave himself a lecture and ordered himself to the bench.

Many Clever Plays Made.

Many unusually difficult fielding plays were made. Once Elberfeld ran far out into Dougherty's territory and took a fly Ganzel made two stops that were by no means ordinary. Cassidy of the Washingtons was strong at short. Because of his tons was strong at short. Because of his quick work his team made three double plays. But don't forget Fultz. His triple sent two runs in and tied the score.

As the Bostons lost to the Athletics, the Highlanders again are in first place.

Neither team scored in the first inning, only three men going to the bat for either side. In the second inning, however, the Highlanders tallied. Fultz, who had reappeared in his old position in center field, went to the bat first for the New York team. He dropped a safe fly in center. A few moments later he was caught off first base, but as Stahl threw wildly he reached hase, but as Stahl threw wildly he reached second. Thence he scored on Ganzel's line single to left. Conroy freed Ganzel and stole second, after which McGuire walked. Both were left, as Griffitn struck out.

The Senators tied the score in the third it ning. Denovan's grounder was taken by heing. Donovan's grounder was taken Ganzel deep in the latter's position, but the runner was out, as Griffith covered the base. Kittredge's grounder was too hot for Elberfeld to handle. Then Wolfe, who had struck twice at the ball without connecting, lined a single to right. O'Neill flied to Dougherty, but Griffith was not so fortunate in disposing of Hill. The latter singled to left, scoring Kittredge. Stahl then struck out. lanzel deep in the latter's position, but the Senators Take the Lead.

Into the lead pranced the Senators in the fourth inning. Mullin hit to the left field fence for three bases and scored on Cassidy's single to left. Donovan hit safely to right. He was caught between first and second on Keeler's throw to nip Cassidy at second on Keeler's throw to nip Cassidy at third. While Donovan was being run down and finally put out by Elberfeld Cassidy crossed the plate.

The Senators still further increased their lead in the fifth inning.

The Highlanders woke up in their half of the fifth inning. Conroy began with a single to right, but he died at second on Griffith's grounder to Hill after McGuire had been retired at first. With two men out the Highlanders did work at the bat that created wild enthusiasm among the that created wild enthusiasm among the spectators. By the time the Highlanders had finished the score was a tie.

At the beginning of the sixth inning Griffith exercised his prerogative as manager of the New Yorks by taking himself out of the how. He sent Clarkers in the the of the box. He sent Clarkson in to do the pitching. The former Harvard player received round after round of applause, and before the inning ended he received more and more. He easily retired the first three Clarkson Wins the Game.

Then Clarkson wielded his bat in the last half of the inning in a way that put the Highlanders in the lead. He faced Hughes, who had replaced Wolfe. After two men had been retired, with Conroy on first base as a result of having forced Ganzel, who had received a base on balls, Clarkson swatted the ball along the right field foul line for three bases. Conroy scored, but Clarkson was left, as Dougherty struck The score:

second game drew to a finish. Clarke and Donaldson were the opposing pitchers in the first game and the former had the best of the argument on account of better support. This contest ran into twelve innings and was finally won through a double-bagger by Clarke and singles by Hughes and Fitzpatrick. The latter made the telling hit of the game as his single drove both runs over the rubber. "Red" Wahler, just back from Atlanta, was on the rubber for the Fourths in the second game, while Fulcher did the twirling for the Norris Peters. INTER-CITY GOLF. Bartlett Defeated Harlan by One Up won the championship tournament of the Maryland and District of Columbia Golf Association over the course of the Baltimore Country Club, by defeating Dr. Lee L. Harban of the Columbia Golf Club of this city, the former holder of the title. Mr. Bartlett is a member of the Baltimore Country Club, and his victory takes the trophy back to Baltimore. John D. Reynolds, jr., of the Baltimore Country Club won the cup in 1902, the first year it was contested for, and last year Dr. Harban carried it home by defeating Mr. Reynolds.

Thirty-six holes were played in the final, the eighteen holes of the first trip around the course counting also in the handicap

In the morning's play Mr. Bartlett de-feated Dr. Harban, 7 up, and in doing so he made the course in 78 strokes, which gave him the lowest net and also the lowest gross score of the day.

Dr. Harban made his morning trip in 87, but on the second 18 holes he struck his gait and by well-aimed drives and fine putting he won back the seven holes that he had lost. When the two contestants came in the score was halved, and it was necessary to play the thirty-seventh hole to decide the match and championship.

The Responsibility of the St. Louis, with Sudhoff pitching, turned the trick.

In spite of the hope so strongly expressed at the beginning of the season that a team of American amateurs would return the visit paid by the Oxford and Cambridge golf team a year ago, the prospect of such a trip seems dimmer than ever. TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Large Crowds Witnessed the Games on Capitol Hill Saturday.

Good headway was made in the tennis ournament of the Young Men's Christian Association on Capitol Hill Saturday. The contests were all hard played and the spectators turned out in large numbers. The weather at present is ideal for tennis and the players work through the matches with unusual energy and dash. The results of Saturday's matches were as follows:

Singles-Avery beat E. D. Yoder, 4 6-3, 8-6; Lundy beat Bishop, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3, 8-6; Lundy beat Bishop, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3; McDonald beat Sullivan, 6-3, 6-1; Van Hoesen beat Robinette, 6-2, 6-4; Welch beat Codington, 4-6, 10-8, 6-0. Doubles—Hart and H. A. Robinette beat Bishop and Sprucebank, 7-5, 6-2; McDonald and Van Hoesen beat Codington and Avery, 6-2, 6-0; Welch and Scrivener beat Garrett and Lay, 6-4, 6-8, 6-3. A match between Lundy and Sullivan against Sweeney and Wurdemann was unfinished when game was called on account of darkness. It will be finished today. The score stood: Lundy and Sullivan won the first set, 6-4, and Sweeney and Wurdemann won the second set, 7-5.

CLAY PIGEON SHOOT.

Eastern Branch Club Wins Second Shoot by Twenty-Four Birds.

The second of a series of three contests between the Eastern Branch and Takoma Gun clubs took place on Saturday over the traps of the former club. As a result of the close score at Takoma on September 10. when the Takoma club won by one bird, considerable interest has been shown by friends of both teams, and a number of spectators were on hand to witness the second contest. Included in the above were the wives and lady friends of the Eastern Branch members, who make the claim that their presence was largely responsible for the victory of the home team.
